

Sweat bee

Family: Halictidae

Easily recognized by their metallic and colorful bodies, most Halictids are solitary and nest in the ground. There are some Halictids that are truly social and will share nests and duties. They can be all sorts of colors, from bright green to blue, gold, and even black.

